Greater Lakeland hosts Zone 4 RCW meeting

VICKI BROOKER

Greater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch was joined by members of the Derwent, Two Hills and District and Andrew-Willingdon Rural Crime Watch groups for the Alberta Provincial Zone 4 Rural Crime Watch meeting at the Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre on Saturday. The zone meeting is an annual event, and circulates between the nine crime watch groups across the zone, which is one of five in the province.

Al Ropchan, who is one of Zone 4's three directors on the provincial association's board, chaired the meeting.

Greater Lakeland's president Orest Sereda was first to give his group's annual report and said that while the group has a large membership and two RCMP detachments in its boundaries, "Our major challenge is to get people out to meetings. We alternate the meetings between St. Paul and Elk Point, but we average 15 in attendance."

Sereda represents the group at Elk Point Community Advisory Policing Committee meetings, and said that group meets every second month and includes representatives from the County of St. Paul, Town of Elk Point, the high school, seniors, oil industry, chamber of commerce and churches, as well as the RCMP, who come together to discuss policing issues and challenges.

Neighborhood watch-type groups have started up this year in several areas in the Greater Lakeland area, he noted, including Stoney Lake and Laurier Lake.

This year's activities and community involvement included sponsoring the RCMP Road Race prizes, holding a member appreciation barbecue and delivering meat and cheese trays to both RCMP detachments, as well as participating in local parades. Sereda and his wife represented Greater Lakeland at the recent Zone 5 meeting.

Sereda was sorry to report that Sgt. Terry Hyggen has just been transferred from Elk Point to Vegreville, and has learned there is no Rural Crime Watch group there, "but he will work on getting one going," Sereda reported. A planned tour of Elk Point's new RCMP Detachment that would have been part of Saturday's meeting was cancelled due to a natural gas leak in the building, he noted, but Cpl. Bobby Burgess hopes to take the Greater Lakeland group on a tour in conjunction with their upcoming meeting on Nov. 22.

Earlier start for Remembrance Day

VICKI BROOKER
Staff Writer

Elk Point's Remembrance Day observations will get off to an earlier start this year, with participating groups, businesses and the public asked to gather at Elk Point's cenotaph at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Nov. 11 for the wreath laying ceremony. The earlier start will allow those present ample time to return to the nearby Elk Point Seniors' Recreation Centre and warm up before the Remembrance Day ceremony starts at 11 a.m. The ceremony will be followed by a light lunch, provided by Elk Point Subway and served by the Elk Point Community Lions. Please come out to honor those who gave the ultimate sacrifice, and those who returned home safely from their tours of duty. We are forever grateful for their service and we take this time to remember all who served our country.

Ralph Feenstra represented the Derwent Rural Crime Watch group, and said he is also that group's liaison with the Vermilion Rural Crime Watch group and shares a fan-out system with both that group and Mannville that "has never really worked that well." While the Derwent group is "not too active right now," he said it held "the best meeting in 30 years" last spring, with good representation from its 61 member families, who come from the east part of the County of Two Hills and the west part of the County of Vermilion River.

Nestor Saskiw spoke on behalf of the Two Hills and District group, which covers an area from Range Road 80 to Range Road 143 near Hairy Hill, and from Highway Ropcha631 to north of the North Saskatchewan River. "We don't have general meetings, just one annual meeting and three or four directors' meetings. We're not too active. Our group was broke, but we had a raffle and did well, and we have a closed Facebook group." Saskiw introduced Garrett Mazurek, a new director from one of the group's eight districts, and noted that now all Rural Crime Watch group directors have to have a criminal record check, under provincial regulations, but in their group, "members don't have to. If you're a crook, you don't want to join us." Criminal record checks are free of charge to Rural Crime Watch members.

Ropchan noted that in large Rural Crime Watch areas, getting a criminal record check could be a deterrent for would-be members, and that people from the west end of his area would have to come to Two Hills Detachment, a 60 km trip. The detachment commander there "had no issues with members not having the checks."

Reporting on the Andrew-Willingdon group, Ropchan said that area includes a large part of Two Hills and Lamont counties, and has 250-plus members. "We updated our membership list and attracted 100-plus new members, including many young adults." They have an open Facebook page with more than 350 members and two administrators, and the Two Hills RCMP post on our page."

Their annual meeting this past March had more than 100 in attendance and featured RCMP liaison Lisa Minor as a speaker. Last year they held a fundraising raffle and this year are holding a pyrohy supper and silent auction at the St. Michael Hall. "We got the hall for free and we made 3,200 pyrohy."

Both counties are "very supportive. The County of Lamont gave us a cash donation, the County of Two Hills supplies paper and photocopying. We've gone away from newspaper advertising and send out 1,200 to 1,400 single sheet flyers, and we try to include the towns in our mail-outs for the AGM and information meetings. We had close to 150 in attendance at the last one, which had a panel discussion and a question-and-answer session."

Speaking in his role as a provincial director, Ropchan said the provincial association is working on development of a phone app for all rural crime watch groups that will be able to segregate areas of concern, and agreed that fan-outs "just don't work any more."

The Provincial Rural Crime Watch AGM is coming up February 1 and 2 in Nisku, "and I recommend that every association send representatives. It's being hosted by the Provincial board for the first time, it's usually by the associations, Kitscoty in 2017 and Lacombe in 2018. We're expecting about 200 delegates from across the province."

Guest speaker for the Zone 4 meeting was Sgt. James Morton, an 18-year veteran of the RCMP who is now in charge of the Eastern Crime Reduction Unit, a team of eight plus support staff and an analyst financed by the government in an effort to combat rural crime.

"I'm not going to explain what we do," he said, instead urging the groups to create partnerships with their community groups to make a difference.

"The best way to make partnerships work is to work. I make commitments and ask others to make commitments," Morton said. "People making commitments sometimes don't follow through, and we have to address that moving forward. For example a subsequent meeting to be arranged after the recent crime-related meeting in Ashmont hasn't happened, he noted, adding, "there seems to be a switch to watch groups" in the area.

Referring to the objectives of Rural Crime Watch and to the presentations by each group at Saturday's meeting, Morton said, "I didn't hear what these groups pushed forward this year on education and prevention programs. All these different groups trying to make their communities a better place are in their own silos. Maybe you could get the groups together and get a speaker on how to make the community safer."

He noted a problem with people posting a theft on Facebook, a post which "escalates to 15 people with similar crimes over the year or more. It doesn't matter if it was 25 years ago or 25 minutes, it takes you right back to that moment and you're victimized all over again, while we're trying to successfully address what has actually happened. The only way we can address it is if people are talking about what is happening today. We need help with that."

In the neighborhood watch groups, Morton said, members seem to be "all prepared to defend that person. It's eyes and ears until it needs to be fists and boots, but nobody in this room wants to confront a thief except me. What is that group's role, what do we want to get out of the involvement? Where the rubber meets the road is in rooms like this, where people ask, 'What can I do to meet your endeavors?' and vice versa."

Asking how many people in the group had been impacted by crime in different time frames, Morton said, "I want to come in here and have nobody put up their hand. Right now, fraud, on the telephone and on the computer, is a big issue, but the information to prevent it isn't getting to the right place. Everyone can write letters to their local papers about what is needed to be done."

Morton suggested that maybe "catching the bad guy" was not the most important part of crime prevention. Everyone has basic needs and "when you don't have food, clothing and shelter and have never known how to obtain them," the only way may seem to be to resort to crime. "Addressing the root cause of the problem is the only way of crime reduction. You need to know who the bad guy is, you need to have a connection with him and learn what his needs are and how they can be fulfilled. The Indigenous people have people ready to help, but there is nothing to break that cycle for the rest." The only way to solve the problem is to get the right people together, he said.

"All these groups need to change or die, to ask ourselves what are we doing in the next year to further our agenda? If there is a way to regenerate Rural Crime Watch, we need to demand that municipal councils send representatives to our meetings. Make these meetings big, open and transparent and get them to be accountable. We need to figure out how to make new partnerships and where we want to go."

Education is another issue, and Morton asked, everyone to ask themselves, "What crime prevention initiative can we do to educate the community? You need to find that one thing. We need to stop talking about the problem, put our heads together and talk about what we want to do about it."

Agreeing that it's a community issue, Ropchan later said, "Every one has a role to play. Get FCSS, Victim Services and community groups all to the table, I challenge Grater Lakeland Rural Crime Watch to get all the groups together, and see what they can provide."

The meeting wound up with the election of two Provincial Association directors. Karl Chomlak from the Two Hills and District group agreed to take on the final two years of a three year term, a position left vacant by a director who is leaving the area, while Jonny Nielsen of Greater Lakeland agreed to take on the new three-year term, beginning at the association's annual meeting in February.

A legacy of peace and soldiering on

One hundred years ago this Sunday, at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month of 1918, the guns fell silent. World War I was over, an armistice was signed between the Allies and Germany. According to author H. G. Wells, it was “the war that would end all wars,” because there were people who felt that it would lead to the destruction of the sorts of governments and attitudes that caused war. Unfortunately, this was not to be the case. World War II, the Korean War, Afghanistan and other conflicts continued to costs lives and leave those who do return intact traumatized, and yet our forces soldier on. We salute their stalwart endeavors, and remember all that served our country in the quest for peace.

NATIONAL SENIOR SAFETY WEEK

Being smart on Smartphones, social networks

A study from Statistics Canada revealed that seniors are the fastest growing segment of Internet users in Canada and that 69 per cent of Canadians aged 55 to 64 and 18 per cent of those 75 years and older own a smartphone. In addition to adopting mobile technologies like smartphones and tablets, seniors are also joining social media networks to stay connected. It is now more important than ever before to empower seniors to stay safe in our digital world. The Canada Safety Council has partnered with TELUS during National Senior Safety Week, held from November 6 – 12, to bring a heightened focus on supporting seniors as they develop critical thinking and safe practices when using smartphones and social media.

Social media sharing and safety

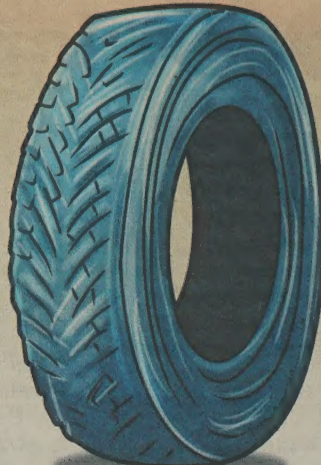

- There is a thin line between being connected and over sharing on social media. Here are six tips to help you protect your privacy and avoid over sharing on social media:
1. Never share your passwords, banking information, social insurance number or any other private information online. This tip may seem like common sense, but there may come a time when you need to share this information with a family member. Instead of sending the information online, it is more prudent to call them or, ideally, deliver the information in person.
 2. Set strong and unique passwords or passphrases (i.e. a complete sentence such as I Love My Grandkids 367*) for your accounts and enable two-factor authentication (2FA) for added protection; with 2FA, you need to authenticate yourself with something in addition to your username and password, such as a code that is sent to your device by text.
 3. Switch your social media profile to private in order to hide your profile information from users you have not accepted as friends.
 4. Regularly review and update your privacy and permission settings so that you're comfortable with what information you're sharing and with whom.
 5. Don't accept friend requests from strangers or those you don't know.
 6. Be mindful of what you post and share, including information you may be unknowingly sharing. For instance, posting photos while on vacation is an indication that you're not at home.

Candidate hospitalized, teens rescued, choir relocated

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF NOV. 5 IN...

1988

Federal Progressive Conservative candidate John Dahmer was admitted to hospital for tests, with no date set for his return to active campaigning. Reform Party candidate Deborah Grey opened her Elk Point campaign office and set plans to visit a number of other communities in the new Beaver River riding.

1993

Three teens were rescued from an island in Frog Lake after being marooned for 23 days after the paddle boat they had taken a ride in on Thanksgiving Day floated away when they stopped to explore and rest during a journey down the lake, their survival termed “nothing short of a miracle” by one of their mothers. Dwayne Lindberg became County Reeve, succeeding Robert Bouchard, who had held that position for 13 years, while Ray Danyluk took over Lindberg's former position as school board chair.

1998

A cross-section of Elk Point and area residents spent two days putting down the foundations for a new building project, their community, at a Community Capacity Building workshop. Former councillor Robert Bouchard was back in the County Reeve's chair after being absent from council for a term, while Terry LaBoucane was elected as School Board chair.

2003

Elk Point Community Choir relocated their practices and performances after scheduling problems did not permit use of the Elementary School auditorium, the choir's Christmas concert moving to the Seniors' Recreation Centre and March 2004 dinner theatre

2008

Recreation topped town council's agenda, with Doug Bassett visiting council on behalf of the A. G. Ross Arena Operating Committee to suggest a partnership between the AOC and the town that could provide benefits for arena workers. Renovations to the Elk Point Arts and Leisure Centre were nearing completion, with over 20 volunteers pitching in to add a final coat of paint to the interior of facility.

MAYOR PARRISH TUNG welcomed newly elected first-time councillors Lorne Young and Debra McQuinn and welcomed back Dwayne Yaremkevich and Bernice Capjack as the five embark on the first-ever four-year term for all municipal councils, rather than three-year terms served by previous councils across Alberta.

The Friends of Fort George and Buckingham House bid a reluctant farewell to their part in the Riverland Challenge, voting unanimously to bow out of their involvement with the popular annual event, as the members who were instrumental in organizing the Challenge were no longer part of the group.

Banner campaign honours veterans

MEREDITH KERR
Review Contributor

A new campaign from St. Paul's Royal Canadian Legion is drawing attention to how young the soldiers who left to fight in the WWI, WWII, and the Korean War were when they enlisted, while also honouring the veterans still alive in the community today.

Locally spearheaded by Ken Brodziak, the idea was first born three years ago in New Brunswick and has since made its way across the country.

"I wanted to honour not only the living, because we don't have very many left, but also veterans who lived in St. Paul since they returned from the war and contributed to the community for 70 years," said Brodziak.

The 22 banners hang from light posts along 50th Ave in St. Paul. Each features the photograph, name, and unit of a veteran in the area.

"I wanted the pictures as they were in service. I didn't want to put up a current picture," said Brodziak, who wants people to see the photographs and understand how young the veterans were when they left for the wars.

"I think the young people today they think of veterans and they see the veterans on TV and they're in their late 90s and they're grizzled and old looking. I hope the impression young people get when they see the banners is 'he was my age and he was going off to defend his country,'" said Brodziak.

Mike Lotoski, 88, is one of the veterans featured on the banners. He's a member of the Royal Canadian Legion and a charter member of the Korea Veterans Association.

"Korea is all mountainous country, so you're living in a hole in the ground. Watching people get killed, watching kids get killed. It was a bad one. You talk to veterans, Korea was one of the worst wars in history," said Lotoski.

Lotoski served in Korea as a member of the second battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. The combat phase of the war lasted from June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953, with the last Canadian soldiers leaving in 1957.

William Zarowny, 98, from Elk Point is also on a banner. He served in the Canadian Ordnance Corps during World War II. Zarowny joined the Canadian Forces as part of the National Mobilization Act on Sept. 7, 1943 and served in Canada until March 5, 1945 when he arrived in Britain, where he served until the end of the war on May 8, 1945. Zarowny received a long delayed War Medal last year for his service.

Canada's involvement in WWII lasted from Sept. 3, 1939 to Sept 2, 1945.

St. Paul Mayor Maureen Miller said the town was happy to support the project.

"It's a Legion initiative, but it takes the town employees to execute the vision, and we had no problem supporting that opportunity," said Miller

Veterans included on the banners are:

In Flanders Fields

*In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.*

*We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.*

*Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.*

One hundred years of remembrance

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the signing of the armistice that brought the First World War and its four years of armed conflict to an end. On November 11, 1918, representatives of France, Great Britain and Germany met in a railway carriage in France to sign the historic document, paving the way for the peace negotiations that would culminate in the Treaty of Versailles, a document drafted five months later.

The anniversary of the Armistice was observed the next year in Great Britain and this tradition quickly spread to the other Allied Nations. The holiday was originally known as Armistice Day, but member states of the Commonwealth of Nations like Canada eventually adopted the name Remembrance Day.

We commemorate on this date not only citizens who fought in the First World War but also those who fought in the Second World War and every other war and peace-keeping mission since.

Although the Allies won the conflict, Armistice Day wasn't a day of unabashed celebration. Given the unspeakable horrors and death tolls in World War I, and likewise in World War II, November 11 became a day of solemn commemoration. Hence the two minutes of silence we observe on this date, a tradition that goes back to the very first Armistice Day commemoration, in 1919.

Spread the spirit of the season with a shoebox

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

It's shoebox time again, and F. G. Miller High School and Elk Point Elementary School are once again part of this long-standing tradition that shares Christmas joy with children in far-away lands.

Denise Bjorkman, librarian at FGM, says, "Operation Christmas Child has been one of the wonderful activities that we have done at FGM in an effort to make children smile all year long! Our focus is filling the shoebox with wonderful items that we sometimes take for granted. This is our 25th year of joining the millions of shoeboxes collected each year."

Shoeboxes are available at both schools, and along with the students, the general public is welcome to fill a box for a boy or girl between two and 14 years of age with toys, hygiene items such as combs, brushes, toothbrushes and soap, small clothing items such as t-shirts and socks, and craft and school supplies. A brochure is enclosed in each box with ideas on what to fill the box and you can even send a personalized Christmas card with well wishes and photos. The brochure includes the advice on items that are not allowed, including candy, toothpaste; used or damaged items, war-related items (toy guns, knives, or military figures), food liquids, lotions, breakables and aerosol cans.

Again this year, Operation Christmas Child Canada has committed to send 20,000 shoeboxes to Ukraine, in addition to the hundreds of thousands of shoeboxes already needed for other receiving countries. F. G. Miller's focus is on sending boxes to the Ukraine, and that country having a cold climate much like our own, it is suggested that toques, mitts, gloves, warm socks and slippers could be part of the items included in boxes to be sent to Ukraine, which will have special labels indicating that is their destination. If you prefer to send a box to a child in a warmer climate, FGM's second priority destination is Central America.

There is no exact destination for the boxes from Elk Point Elementary School and Amy Noel, who with husband Andre are logistics coordinators for Operation Christmas Child in the Elk Point and St. Paul area, say this is decided at a later date in Calgary after tallies are done and all boxes are sorted. "The only way for a child to know the country their box is going to is to pack a box for a child in the Ukraine. These boxes get a special "Ukraine" label on them and are all sorted together and sent there." Shoeboxes packed in Canada are typically delivered to between 15 and 20 countries each year, Noel says.

Collection week is Nov 12 to 18 and F. G. Miller's deadline for shoeboxes is Friday, Nov. 16, 2018, at noon, while Elk Point Elementary has set Wednesday, Nov. 14 as their deadline. The Elk Point Baptist Church is also a drop-off destination.

"We hope you choose to fill a shoebox this year and make a child smile," Bjorkman says, as she folds up more shoeboxes ready for students, staff and local residents to pick up and pack with Christmas gifts to delight a child in a faraway land.

You may also be inadvertently sharing the location in which the photos and/or videos were taken. This is done through the process of geo-tagging, which adds geographical location data to photos or videos. To enhance your privacy, turn geo-tagging off in your phone settings and wait to share vacation photos until you return.

Mobile device safety

Protect your information on your phone (or tablet) by implementing these steps:

1. Set up a passcode on your device so no one can access your device without your permission and update settings so your phone automatically locks after a period of inactivity.

2. Most smartphones have a feature allowing you to locate your phone remotely in case you lose it, or delete data/disable it if it is stolen. Be sure this feature is activated (Find my Phone on iOS and Find my Device on Android).

3. Erase all content and settings (iOS) and/or perform a factory reset (Android) on your phone before giving it away or recycling it. This will wipe the phone clean of all your data and is more secure relative to manually deleting the information on your phone item by item.

4. When using free Wi-Fi in public places, be cautious of what information you transmit over the Internet:

■ Don't download any software updates over public Wi-Fi. It is an easy way to accidentally introduce a virus onto your device.

■ Avoid surfing sites that require you to login, but if you can't avoid it make sure the URL of the website starts with https and not http. This indicates an added layer of data encryption.

■ Refrain from doing any online shopping so as to protect your credit card information.

5. When downloading apps, read the privacy and permission agreements. These outline what information of yours is shared with the developer when you agree to their terms.

Don't remember me with sadness,
Don't remember me with tears,
Remember all the laughter,
We shared throughout the years,
Now I am contented

When you are walking down the street
And you've got me on your mind,
I'm walking in your footsteps
Only half a step behind.

OBITUARY

TOEWS, WANDA JAYNE

Wanda Jayne Toews was born March 11, 1981 to Rodney and Aldine Goossen. She grew up on the family farm near Stenen, SK and went to school at the Northstar School. She accepted Jesus and was baptized into the Church of God in Christ Mennonite when she was 13 years old.

Wanda was a faithful Christian and serving others was important to her. The 6 months she spent in the Children's Home in Gallup, New Mexico were a highlight in her life. Her love of children drew her to teaching school. She taught in Hyas, SK, Altona, MB and Dewberry, AB. While teaching in Dewberry, she fell in love with Cameron Toews and they were married on August 17, 2008 in Hyas, SK. This past August was their 10th anniversary. They celebrated earlier in the summer with a trip to San Diego with their girls.

The girls were the center of Cam and Wanda's life. Sophia Aldine was born December 8, 2011, Naomi Jayne arrived July 31, 2015 and Isla Caroline was born October 19, 2018, the same day Wanda went to be with Jesus. The last couple days before Isla was born, Wanda was especially happy and she was so excited about going back home. Isla Caroline was named by Cam and Sophia from Wanda's list of favorite names. While we don't understand the timing, we know God must have needed another Angel.

Wanda was interested in what was going on in everyone's life, and a family get together wasn't complete if someone was missing. Each one of her siblings and their children held a special place in her heart. Wanda's big heart and caring nature showed in her long list of people she prayed for. She loved being around people and her contagious chuckle could always be heard. Her dry sense of humour was often unexpected and we wondered if she was even trying to be funny. Wanda was a busy mom, but never passed up a shopping trip with her sisters or friends and could always find a good deal. She loved being outside in the sunshine, looking after her flowers and garden.

Saying goodbye with broken hearts are; Cam, Sophia Aldine, Naomi Jayne and Isla Caroline. Her parents Rodney and Aldine Goossen, her family Heather and Curtis Warkentin, Greg and Paula Goossen, Sherri and Rocky Warkentin, Mathew and Brooke Goossen. Cam's parents Daryl and Loretta Toews, Cam's family Tina and Bruce Klassen, Nola and Craig Toews. She will also be missed by all her precious nieces, nephews, aunts and uncles who meant so much to her. Wanda was welcomed into Heaven by all of her grandparents.

Funeral services were held Saturday, October 27, 2018 at Church of God in Christ, Mennonite, Lakeland Congregation, Dewberry, Alberta, with interment in Dewberry Cemetery. Condolences may be sent to the family at www.sunsetltd.ca.

Avalanche weathers storm to compete at home and on the road

This sounds a little bit like something Connor McDavid would do. Getting in on every goal. Or maybe more like Gordie Howe, since he also served some time in the sin bin. I'm talking about 'Top Gunner' Crawford, who scored two goals and two assists in the Pee wee Avalanche 4 to 3 win on Sunday over the Vermilion Tigers. 'Top Gunner' had lots of energy in this game, slipping away and getting the first goal all on his own. Then rushing down center ice on the second one, he dishes this one off to 'Stellar' Ella 'Ballas' who used a bank shot off the back wall that then ricocheted off their defenseman and into the net. I bet 'Stellar' would make a pretty good pool shark too! The Avalanche were now sitting on easy street with a two goal lead early in the first period before the Tigers would get one on the board, scoring one on the power play, the score 2 to 1 after 20 minutes. Into the second period the Tigers would tie the game 2-all on a shorthanded goal. The Avalanche became a little complacent and maybe just a little lazy too. And it cost them again, just before the period was over, the Tigers, the stronger of the two teams in the second period for sure, would bury another to take a 3 to 2 lead after 40 minutes. I'm guessing there may have been a little discussion in the Avalanche dressing room between the second and the third period because the Avalanche came out like gang busters to start the third period. 'Top Gunner' scoring in the first shift assisted by Stellar' and Gavin 'Giver' Kadutski, 'Giver' also played a very strong game back on the blue line. The game now tied at three apiece, the big 'Freight Train' Timmy Cardinal parked right on the doorstep would hammer one home five minutes later assisted by 'Top Gunner' and 'Bo Diddley' Fontaine. The Avalanche holding the lead now for the next 15 minutes, playing with intensity and not backing off this time. Plus when they failed to clear the puck, goalie 'Kid Kade' Fontaine would bail them out. And some terrific penalty killing by Vaughn the Vulture' Ockerman who single handedly ragged the puck for almost the full two minutes and he just about scored twice on the same penalty kill, once with a shot on a breakaway, then digging out the puck, he tried again on the wrap around. Defenseman Sam 'Spiderman' Rogal was another player who made some big contributions, his not with points on the board but goals saved by blocking shots and getting the puck up and out across the blue line. Shots on goal were 35 to 34, so it looks like the Tigers and the Avalanche belong in the same tier. The day before, the Pee wee Avalanche travelled to Irma losing 5 to 0, but were badly outshot, so not sure if they would be moved up to another tier or stay. Of course 'Spiderman,' one of the Avalanche key shot blocking defense players, was missing that day playing football with the Bengals, laying out some heavy blocks in their final game of the year.

The Atom Avalanche saved some gas money this past weekend as they played two games at home. The first one Saturday against Cold Lake was a real nailed. Even though the Avalanche were outshot 26 to 9, they only lost by a 3 to 2 score. Of course you guessed it, goalie 'Good Year Charlie' Lesyk was standing on his head. Madden 'Mad Dog' Flamand scoring assisted by Kaysen 'Dynamite' DeMoissac then 'Dynamite' scoring assisted by the 'Snoop Dog' Evett Smereka. Sunday morning their game was not nearly as close and a whole lot rougher. The final score 12 to 3 for the Bonnyville Pontiacs, the penalties minutes, 10 two-minute penalties for the Pontiacs, eight two minute penalties for the Avalanche. Fair to say these teams are not the best of friends. There were 55 shots on 'Good Year Charlie'. 'Hurricane Kayl' Warawa standing her ground on the goal mouth scored the first goal assisted by 'Mad Dog'. Braylee 'Little Willy' Lesyk and 'Mad Dog' with one goal each, both of them unassisted.

The Novice Avalanche played their first game at home on Saturday morning using the new Hockey Alberta half-ice four-on-four system. Goalie Remington 'Steel' Reynolds doing a terrific job of scrambling from side to side, coming up with some huge saves. He faced a ton of rubber in his goaltending debut, having to send out an SOS for some recruits to help clear the front of the crease. Long legged Jaxon 'Smitty' Smith scoring one assisted by 'Wild Wyatt' Fontaine, Ryder 'Rhino' Malo with a goal assisted by Kestyn Quinney and Jaxon 'Magic' Marcoux. 'Wild Wyatt' Fontaine with one assisted by 'Jesse James' Penner. Some great fore-checking and back-checking by the much improved skater Denys 'the Menace' Kuba and very timely shot blocking by Jackson 'J.R.' Rawlake. On Sunday morning the Novice travelled to St. Paul, William 'Billy Bob' Ballas scoring for the Avalanche.

Sunday afternoon storm warnings were in the forecast but didn't deter the Midget Avalanche from travelling up to Lac La Biche to take on the Clippers. This would be a great test to see where the Avalanche should be seated since Lac La Biche was one of the top teams in Tier Two. The boys were obviously able to skate with any team, the game ending in a four-all tie. Two goals each for Hayden 'Hotwheels' Ludlage and 'King Cole' Bendixen. Assists by 'Danny Boy' Cardinal, Evan 'Batman' Ockerman, Nick 'Sparky' Anderson and Charlie 'Chuckles' Rogal. Between the pipes, Colton 'Colt 45' Van Maarion had a busy night, facing 38 shots defending the net from the attacking Clippers.

And now for the K.A. Campbell quote of the week "I think the game has gotten better. (The two ref system) keeps players from taking cheap shots behind the play. I never thought I'd like it, considering the way I like to hack." - Brian Skrudland

Disappointing weekend for Elks

Saturday was another tough night for the Elks. We visited our long time rivals the Hillmond Hitmen to face a fast skating, hard hitting and talented team with once again a short bench, to come out with an 8 - 0 loss.

"I know we can't win them all, but we are currently 1 and 3 for wins and losses, and 4 for 4 with a short bench," says frustrated Elks executive member Wanda Cochrane. The team has a large roster of players but have not had a full bench to date.
